

For a government agency considering a option to hinder the flow of information by any form is beyond belief. (Actually, based on the FCC's history, it's not improbable.) Satellite radio should be able to negotiate with local provides for, in this case, traffic and weather.
Thanks for considering comments from a listener who utilizes all forms of communication.

TIA

Alton Coward